VERIDOCs ANNOUNCES CHANGES TO EXECUTIVE MANAGEMENT AND BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Friday, July 30, 2010 (Las Vegas, NV) – Veridocs announced today that Dennis Nelson, chairman, president and CEO and the visionary behind the company and its software solution suite, will be reducing his role within the company and will no longer serve as chairman of the board, president and CEO. Dennis will remain on the board of directors and continue to solidify the company with strategic relationships and promote the outstanding products Veridocs offers to its valued clients.

“Truly there is nothing more satisfying than building a successful company and launching a product that meets the needs of so many vertical markets,” said Dennis Nelson. He further stated, “My strength and passion is providing creative solutions to clients’ unique issues and developing new business opportunities and ventures. I will continue to work closely with the board of directors and maintain a high level of business development support to Veridocs as we continue our road to success.”

Larry J. Woolf and Carl Kuehne, members of the Veridocs board of directors, commented, “The Board looks forward to a continued relationship with Dennis and hope to utilize his extraordinary vision and strong industry relationships to further the success of Veridocs.”

The board of directors has appointed Joseph E. Oprosko, Jr., CPA, president and COO of Veridocs. Joe joined Veridocs as interim COO in February of this year, after working as a consultant to Veridocs in the tribal gaming and law enforcement sector. “After impressing the board of directors with his financial and business acumen, it was clear to the Board that Joe was the natural choice to take the company to its next level,” commented Carl Kuehne, director.

Other changes to the Board were the election of Carl Kuehne as Chairman of the Board and Mike Pate, co-founder and CTO of Veridocs, as Secretary and Treasurer of the company.
